21st Annual Mondale Award and Scholarship Gala

Ambassador Walter Mondale and Linda Hashimoto

On a chilly evening, the JASM community gathered at the Oakridge Country Club in Hopkins, Minnesota to celebrate the 21st Annual Mondale Award and Scholarship Gala on Saturday, November 17, 2018. The evening provided a special time to celebrate the ongoing relationship-building between Japan and Minnesota.

The program began with words of welcome by the emcee, Clint Connor, partner at Dorsey and Whitney law firm and JASM Board Member. Next Richard Stahl, Honorary Consul of Japan in Minnesota, introduced Consul-General Naoki Ito from the Consulate-General of Japan in Chicago. Consul-General Ito spoke about his joy in representing Japan to the Midwestern States and gave a toast.

Following Consul-General Naoki Ito's remarks, JASM Executive Director Rio Saito, and JASM Vice President Elizabeth Fehrmann had the pleasure of presenting certificates of recognition to JASM's many corporate sponsors. JASM was also pleased to recognize representatives from affiliated nonprofit organizations: Joann Blatchley, Co-President of the St. Paul-Nagasaki Sister City Committee; Kate Thersleff, JETAAMN President; and Andy Tso, Anime Twin Cities Board President. Lastly, former JASM Executive Director Ben van Lierop was recognized for his 12 years of service at JASM. Afterward, although she was unable to attend, U.S. Senator from Minnesota, Amy Klobuchar, spoke to Gala guests through a video message.

Ambassador Walter Mondale then introduced Dr. Sheila Smith, the Keynote Speaker for the event. She spoke about the importance of the U.S.-Japan relationship and its importance on not only the international front, but the domestic front as well. She closed her speech by praising JASM's contributions to the Japan-Minnesota partnership and the importance of contributions by individuals such as those of the 2018 Mondale Award recipient.

Letter from the JASM President

*Marc Blehert
JASM President*

Dear JASM Members and Friends,

Time flies when you are having fun! It is hard to believe my term as JASM President is coming to an end. It has been an honor and pleasure to serve this wonderful organization.

Don't worry, I am not going away. Honestly, I have no plans to ever leave Minnesota – well, hopefully I'll be heading south for the winter one day but will always treasure my JASM membership.

I joined JASM back in 1996 as a recent college graduate and former Japan study abroad student. At the time, I was ecstatic to have found a group that would help me maintain and strengthen my connection with Japan. Joining JASM remains one of the best decisions I ever made!

I have been a member for 22 years, almost half my life and counting. During that time, I have seen my membership go from the Student rate to the Individual rate then to a Household membership upon marriage to my wife, Amy. Our 3.5-year-old daughter Ella is now part of the club, completing the family membership.

The highlight of my tenure in JASM leadership has been getting to know so many of our outstanding Individual and Corporate members. The talents, knowledge and generosity of JASM members, the lifeblood of this society, is second to none. I have learned so much from all of you and can never thank you enough for your support and dedication to the JASM mission.

I am forever grateful to former Executive Director, Ben van Lierop for encouraging me to volunteer way back when and then inviting me to join the JASM Board. It takes a village to run JASM and I express my heartfelt appreciation to the Board of Directors I have been privileged to work with. Their guidance is instrumental in the continued success of JASM.

I am thrilled for the future of JASM under the leadership of Executive Director Rio Saito and Program Manager Yoko Ueno. You could not ask for more capable, dedicated, friendly staff. It is also a pleasure to be succeeded by Elizabeth Fehrmann as the next President of JASM. She brings new energy, skills and ideas that will keep JASM moving onwards and upwards at a steep trajectory.

Finally, I am quite relieved to say JASM finished in the black the past two years and I didn't break anything.

I wish you all a happy, healthy new year and see you at the Shinnenkai!

By Marc Blehert

JASM Board Members and the JASM Office team would like to thank Marc for his enthusiasm and for all of his contributions during his time as president. We are excited to continue working with Marc, as we strengthen the Japan-Minnesota relationship.

Emperor Akihito's Abdication and Emperor's Birthday

*Akihito
Emperor of Japan*

Japan's royal family is the oldest continuous hereditary monarchy in the world. For thousands of years, emperors have followed tradition by passing the crown to their eldest son after death. Emperor Akihito, the current ruler, was expected to do the same, but has surprised the country with his announcement of abdication: the first in more than two centuries in Japan's history. Akihito wants to pass on his role as emperor to his son, Naruhito, prior to his death.

*Naruhito
Crown Prince of Japan*

Due to his recent battles with cancer and heart surgery, Akihito feels he is unable to fulfill his duties as Emperor, and hopes Japan will respect his decision to step down. Although politically, the emperor of Japan has no power, he and his family are beloved by Japanese citizens. Emperor Akihito will abdicate the throne on April 30, 2019 and Crown Prince Naruhito will succeed him on October 22, 2019.

Emperor's Birthday Celebration

Because of his abdication, this will be the last year the Emperor's Birthday (天皇誕生日, Tennō tanjōbi) is celebrated on December 23, Emperor Akihito's birthday. The following celebration of the Emperor's birthday will not occur until February 23, 2020, after Crown Prince Naruhito ascends to the throne.

The Mondale Award for Japan-Minnesota Partnership was presented by Ambassador Mondale to Linda Hashimoto van Dooijeweert, founder and dance director of Sansei Yonsei Kai, and an active member of the Japan-Minnesota community. Linda Hashimoto expressed her sincere gratitude and humbly received the reward. After she received the Mondale Award, Linda and two other dancers performed a traditional Japanese dance, Takasago no Mai.

During the dinner, both silent and live auctions were held to raise money for the Mondale Scholarship program, and to provide support for future JASM programs. Generous auction donations had been made by both individuals and businesses in the form of airline tickets, pottery, and hotel vouchers. The live auction was conducted by Katie Imholte-Gabriel of Fladeboe Auctions, who also conducted the "Fund the Need" donation appeal. Many generous attendees responded with gifts to "Fund the Need." Following the dinner, guests enjoyed green tea sponge cake with chocolate glaze, graciously prepared by Tomoko Drake.

This year's Mondale Award Scholarship recipients were four distinguished students: Elise Bearrood from the College of Saint Benedict in St. Joseph, Hannah Detlaff from Macalester College in St. Paul, Tatiana Gust from Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, and Mason Williams from the University of St. Thomas.

As the event came to a close, JASM President Marc Blehert spoke of the impact of studying abroad in Japan, and proceeded to close the ceremony by thanking everyone for their donations and contributions to the 2018 Mondale Award and Scholarship Gala. Takuzo Ishida, who also with provided us with a stunning Bonsai display, and friends also made sure to send the event off with a bang with a performance of tejime, the Japanese custom of ceremonial handclapping performed at the end of a special event, to bring the event to a close.

JASM is grateful for all those who made donations for the Mondale Scholarship program, and to all those who made this event happen. JASM is also sincerely grateful to all the volunteers, donors, and sponsors who contributed to the success of this event! We couldn't have done it without you!

MN Grassroots Development: Minnesota Council of Teachers of Japanese

JASM would like to introduce the many other Japan-related local groups in Minnesota to our members. This series, Minnesota Grassroots Development, aims to strengthen the links of the Japan-America community throughout the state of Minnesota by familiarizing members with these groups working tirelessly to bring the community together.

The Minnesota Council of Teachers of Japanese (MCTJ) is a non-profit organization of teachers of Japanese language, literature, and linguistics which works to promote the study of Japanese at all levels of instruction in the upper midwest. MCTJ offers professional development for teachers as well as works with JASM to promote and run the annual J-Quiz competition for high school students, with the support of numerous JASM volunteers and local college and university professors. MCTJ is a local affiliate of AATJ (the American Association of Teachers of Japanese).

Every year members of MCTJ attend and present at national conferences for Japanese and world language education. Members also work with the Japan Foundation Los Angeles and have received grants, J-Leap assistants from Japan, teacher training, and many other opportunities that benefit students who are studying Japanese in the upper midwest.

North Dakota Outreach Report

Greetings JASM Members,

My name is Kate Thersleff and I am a current JASM Board Member as well as the President of the local JETAA (Japan Exchange and Teaching Program Alumni Association) chapter. Part of our mission at JETAAMN as well as JASM is to do outreach to local colleges and universities.

At the end of October, JASM Executive Director Rio Saito and I were given the opportunity to visit and speak to several colleges outside of the Twin Cities area about the Mondale Scholarship.

This past year, Ambassador Walter Mondale approved widening the eligibility criteria to include colleges located in North Dakota, so we went to visit universities there to let students know about the services and opportunities that JASM provides. In North Dakota, Rio and I visited the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, North Dakota State University in Fargo, and of course, since we were there, we also visited nearby Minnesota State University in Moorhead.

We met with students at all three locations and talked to them about study abroad, Japan, interning with JASM, and the Mondale Scholarship. The ability to share this scholarship with students from a different state and create stronger ties between Japan and the Midwest is something that I am proud to be a part of. Rio and I are hopeful that in the next round of Mondale Scholars we will have someone from North Dakota to add to those chosen to receive this award.

Tom Haeg's Book Review

Biruma; Hiwa Satoko, Seidosha Press, 2003; Translated by Juliet Winters Carpenter; 111 pages.

[Note: this book is out of print, but can be found in the JASM office library]

Hiwa Satoko's poetry, while sharing laconic traits common to Japanese haiku or tanka, is quite distinctive. There is no expected rhyme, no syllabic parameter; instead, there is a subtle, suggestive cadence, an impressionistic tone to capture our imagination. Yet it bewilders us with images that deliver powerful punches far beyond the apparent. This is both exciting and challenging. Exciting: it is fanciful in imagination. Challenging: it confronts the reader with the opaque. Readers then must read the poem again and again on several levels to achieve, well, "figure it out".

Noteworthy is Satoko's courage. As an unknown, she wrote and designed Biruma, paying upfront all the publication costs. Yes, out of her own pocket, on her own dime. Why? No publisher at first dared to take a chance on her; they all took a pass. So, it is even more surprising that Biruma won the prestigious Nakamura Chuya Prize for Japanese poetry in 2002 for this, her first attempt at writing. This prize has only two qualifications: It must be modern and it must be 'fresh in feeling' to merit the eponymous award befitting one of Japan's most revered poets, who died all too young at the age of 30.

Here is a sample poem - you decide and enjoy:

Curvature of the Spine

Kyphosis

*He took my hand and placed it on the severed muscle
in his thigh.
Grabbed my hand
and forced it to touch
the scrawny severed place.
(And then my hand moved back and forth pressing hard.)*

Many questions arise. Kyphosis? What does the hand signify? Who is the narrator? Is she in control? "Severed place?" Is she healing a wound, a scar? Was the wound physical, emotional, or both? In dissecting the work, it demands an elevated academic, somewhat Socratic approach: question... answer... question... answer... etc. It begs group discussion.

Seidosha Press was wise to select Ms. Carpenter as the English translator. She is an American who began her Japanese language studies at age 16. She knew that her translation must replicate Satoko's intent to celebrate language. She has several prestigious translation works for distinguished Japanese publishers. She currently is a professor of literature at Doshisha Women's College in Kyoto.

CALLING ALL CRAFTERS!

Did you know MN Nihonjin-kai has been creating handcrafted greeting cards for over 20 years? It started when we were looking for ways to raise money for the group. A few of us started using our origami skills to create greeting cards for all occasions. The beautiful calligraphy is the work of Hisako "Betty" Wendt. Even though she is no longer with us, her artwork is featured on most of our greeting thanks to digital copies. We have four regular card-makers in our group at present, but would welcome more!

Can you help? Contact Karen at (612) 747-0340. You create at your own pace in your own home! We can provide the paper and card materials. If you prefer to make origami only, we can design the cards using your creations! We are always looking for new ideas and card designs. Please let us know if you would like to get involved - it's for a great cause!!

Every card comes sealed in a poly bag with an envelope for protection. Each card is individually hand-crafted and therefore unique. These are beautiful "as is" but can also be framed as artwork and displayed. Our greeting cards make wonderful gifts and cover almost every occasion!

Cards are sold at the Obon Festival, the New Year Festival, and at the Japanese Library. We have a card rack in the back room and there is a payment box on the kitchen table for your convenience. They are a STEAL at only $3.50 each, or 3 for $10. Thank you for the continued support!
